FACT, FICTION, AND FORECAST

By NELSON GOODMAN. "Goodman's book is an important one for any serious student of the philosophy of science. His familiar essay on counterfactuals is reprinted, followed by unpublished lectures the first of which deals with dispositions and possibility and the remaining two with the general problem of valid induction or projection."—Philosophy and Phenomenological Research. $3.00

ROYCE ON THE HUMAN SELF

By JAMES HARRY COTTON. "The study is centered around Royce's conception of the human self; but since that was the central problem of Royce's philosophy, the study involves the whole corpus of his thought. . . . Very comprehensive and illuminating analysis of the thought of a great philosopher and great spirit, who was threatened with premature neglect."—REINHOLD NIEBUHR, N. Y. Times Book Review. $5.00

THINKING AND EXPERIENCE

By H.H. PRICE. The well-known British philosopher studies the content and concept of cognition. "Price writes with grace and lucidity. His book is well constructed, and it displays an impressive knowledge of the history of philosophical thought about thinking."—NORMAN MALCOLM, in Philosophical Review. $5.00

STUDIES IN PHILOSOPHY

By R.F.A. HOERNLÉ. Edited and with a memoir by Daniel S. Robinson. "Hoernlé was . . . keenly aware of the concrete problems of society and of his own responsibility in relation to them. . . . In the papers here presented he discusses . . . theory of knowledge, truth and error, knowledge and faith, value, meaning, neo-realism and religion, the absolute, and universals."—Christian Century. $5.00
